ANA MORALES

EMPOWERING TEEN MOTHERS AND FATHERS IN EL SALVADOR TO LIVE HEALTHY AND PRODUCTIVE LIVES

Ana has focused her talents in the nonprofit sector, spending a decade working for her family's foundation. As Regional Director, she built partnerships and designed programs to provide academic scholarships and school supplies for children. Her passion is investing in projects that empower girls and women, particularly those who have experienced gender-based violence.

Ana has also worked as an art therapist at the Hispanic Coalition in New York City and volunteered for after-school programs in London with underserved youth. Based in London and originally from Monterrey, Mexico, she has a degree in Human Resources and a Masters in Art Therapy from Pratt University in New York. She is also an active member of several philanthropic communities, including Synergos, Nexus, and The Philanthropy Workshop in London.
