CRISTINA LJUNGBERG

IMPROVING SEXUAL, REPRODUCTIVE AND MENSTRUAL HEALTH FOR TEEN GIRLS IN NEPAL

Cristina is the chairman and driving force behind the Giving Wings Foundation, a Swedish foundation focused on education and healthcare for women and girls with a specific interest in menstrual hygiene. She is an active board member of Acumen and Afripads in Uganda. Cristina started her career working for Baxter Healthcare in Chicago as a principal engineer, designing medical devices and biotech products. Following an MBA, she worked in the management consulting industry for McKinsey and Co.

In 2007, she invested in the award winning documentary, "The Devil Came on Horseback." This experience precipitated her love for documentary film, and ultimately led her to launch Influence Film. She earned a Bachelor of Science in Biology from Tufts University, a Masters in Biotechnology from Northwestern and an MBA from The Tuck School of Business at Dartmouth College. She is originally from Indiana and currently lives in Stockholm, Sweden with her husband and four sons.
